WDF walks!

Various Locations – September 22

Meet local Landscape Architects from Hilderman Thomas Frank Cram as they guide tours through 2 of the city's newest Landscape designs.

Millennium Library – Guided by Monica Giesbrecht, Principal, HTFC – 10:00 am

Take a walk through the newly reopened Millennium Library Park with Landscape Architect Monica Giesbrecht. Get introduced to the Park's modernist history and how this tradition is continued in the new renovation. Learn about the intense stakeholder building process that now makes this park a vibrantly programmed activity centre in the Downtown. Look below the surface of the park and explore the innovative design thinking and sustainable technologies behind Winnipeg's largest intensive green roof. Discover the three significant pieces of public art in the park and learn about how they came into being. Get a glimpse of what is yet to come for this vibrant public space.

Meet at the beaker water sculpture called 'EmptyFul' along the Donald Street edge of the park.

Steinkopf Gardens – guided by Glen Manning, Principal, HTFC – 11:30 am

This tour reveals the story behind the rehabilitation of this landmark urban courtyard in downtown Winnipeg. The intent of the renovation was to update and refresh the space, which was originally constructed in the late 1960's, adding life and improving accessibility. The design team worked hard to respect and retain design elements from the original courtyard, while addressing new demands on the design, and advancing some of the original courtyard's unrealized urban design aspirations. The tour will touch on the many challenges that were overcome, from uncharted utility lines to overzealous skateboarders – and a few that we are still working on.

Meet at the entry plaza on Lily Avenue between the Concert Hall and Manitoba Museum.

WDF Tours!

Winnipeg is at a turning point in its redevelopment. Major projects are being planned or constructed throughout the city, many under our last decade's administrator's guidelines for a much slower emerging metropolis.

In the past, the design community has responded en masse to re-imagine the city, whether the focus was our waterfront in the exchange, or our mythic crossroads, Portage and Main.

The second event of the FRONTlines series is going to feature three projects from the past that re-imagine the city on a civic scale. After introductory short presentations, designers and architects will discuss the issues pertinent to the projects in a moderated forum. Following the first event, StoreFRONT MB and FrontLines will call upon our community once again to bring our vision and creativity to all Winnipeggers to help them imagine a more vibrant, livable and beautiful city. livable and beautiful city.

Various Locations

September 26 – 29

wndx.org

The Winnipeg Design Festival is proud to support the Situated Cinema project as part of the WDF! This project is commissioned as part of the WNDX Festival of Moving Image.

An alternative cinema-going experience in which the interior of the movie theatre interacts with the city outside, the second iteration of the Situated Cinema project is a demountable micro cinema that will be installed at various sites in Winnipeg. Through the mobility and permeability of the venue and the mingling of silent films and shifting contextual soundscapes, the project embraces the interactions and juxtapositions of the city and asks viewer-participants and five commissioned filmmakers to do the same.

The cinema will loop 16mm films by Alexandre Larose (Montreal), Alex Mackenzie (Vancouver), Caroline Monnet (Montreal/Winnipeg), Heidi Phillips (Winnipeg), and Izabella Pruska-Oldenhof (Toronto). The cinema was designed by Thomas Evans and Craig Rodmore. Solomon Nagler is coordinating curator for the project, which is accompanied by a catalogue with an essay by Jon Davies. Situated Cinema will be on the move!

Curated by Thom Fougere

Three dimensional modeling is a tool employed by designers, architects, makers, and manufacturers to gain an understanding of the spatial implications of an idea. Three dimensional modeling – whether 1:1 or 100:1 – is arguably the most revealing stage in the design process. Its physicality allows for a hands-on interaction with the manifestation of the idea.

Something that was previously ideated along a single index, usually through sketches or drawings, can now be viewed from multiple perspectives. This can facilitate a deeper understanding of not only the physical connections within the object, but also the larger contextual spatial and emotional connections that the object will have with the surrounding environment.

The upcoming exhibit, Maquette, will showcase a selection of these three dimensional explorations from established Winnipeg-based designers, architects and artists. Maquette will present how some of Winnipeg's foremost creators use three dimensional modeling in their creative process. Whether in the form of initial conceptual iterations or the result of countless hours of labourious refinement, each of the objects on display will offer an insight into the creative process.
